It reduces the risk of fraud, & because of that this is the system that ABG has adopted to transpire credibility to its customers. Block chain is a synonym of trust. All of the financial transactions get registered so that people can check them. But how can this be safe? The answer is simple each transaction is being registered in a block individually, and new blocks are generated all the time, creating a chain of blocks and all the information is encrypted, therefore, people cannot know who made the transaction, neither who received it. Since it is a decentralizes system, there is no entity or governmental authority as a mediator just like a ledger, block chain is a data bank that stores all of the digital transactions.
